THE REPLY TO GERMANY

The reply to Germany is conceived in the same spirit of service to humanity and couched in the same tone of patience and firmness that marked the President's note of last month. Contrary to expectation, following Mr. Bryan's action, it strikes no new note, In fact, it is difficult to understand why the former Secretary of State havin the club room last Sunday in viola- ing approved the earlier note should have balked at this one. It is no more conclusive than was the other. It leaves the way open for rejoinder. The feeling of Americans after reading it, and having its predecessor in mind, will be summed up in the verdict.

'Why, there's no war in this. That, however, may be a hasty and naccurate estimate. War does not depend on words, but on moods. But t seems improbable that Germany havng entered upon a discussion of the first and sharper note should take umbrage at this one. It is true the President has not abated his determination to insist upon those principles of humanity and international law for which he contended originally. He maintains the right of American ships and American citizens as he first stated them. He holds as firmly as ever that these rights must be recognized. He takes it as to be understoood, under the German orders issued to naval commanders at the outbreak of war, that the lives of noncombatants on unresisting merchantmen cannot be law fully or rightfully put in jeopardy. The note opens with a reference to the cases of the Gulflight and Cushing, accepting Germany's implied recogni ion in those instances of the freedom of the open seas to neutrals and its as sumption of liability. In the Falaba case, in which the American, Thresher, lost his life, the same principles are applied as in that of the Lusitania, the necessity of assuring the safety of passengers before the destruction of an unresisting merchantman. Answering the German assertions that the Lusitania was armed, carried contraband and was really an auxiliary naval vessel in the British service, the note sys American official information shows Germany to have been misinformed. Otherwise, it points out, the United States would itself have been guilty of neglect in permitting a vessel of the character the Lusitan'a is claimed by Germany to have been to have departed from an American port. If, it is added, Germany has evidence that American officials to neglected the duty incumbent upon them this government would ask that it be sub mitted to us. In conclusion the hope is expressed that Germany will adopt such measures as may be necessary to put into practice the principle in respect to the safeguarding of American lives and ships and asks for assurance that this will be done.

What less could Mr. Bryan have said? It looks as though the President had effectively blanketed his late Premier's protest.—Pittsburg Dispatch,

Drop Bombs On Coast Towns, Killing 16

and Seriously Injuring 40 Persons.

Cause Death of 19 Persons and Injury of 14 in German Town-British War Office Admits 24 Killed

During Raid of June 6. London, June 17.-Following within 12 hours the British air raid on Karlsrube in which, it is now learned, 19 persons were killed and 14 injured, German Zeppelins Tuesday night raided the northeast coast of England, killing 16 and seriously injuring 40 persons, according to admissions of the war office. As was the case with the raid on May 31, details of the latest raid are again being suppressed and nothing is published here except the official statement. Alarmed over the mutterings of the citizens, however, the war office gives an amplified account of the raid of June 6, in which it is now admitted that 24 were killed and 40 injured. Statement of War Office.

The official statement follows: "Further inquiries show that the casualties in connection with the visit of a Zeppelin to the northeast coast Tuesday night amounted to 16 killed and 40 injured. It is now possible to state more exactly the casualties resulting from an airship raid on another portion of the northeast coast on the night of June 6. The number of deaths there was 24, comprising 5 men (all civilians), 13 women and 6 children. There were also 40 cases of more or less serious injuries. The principal fires were in drapery establishments, a lumber vard and a terrace of small bouses."

The heavy casualty list, the admission that the raid was followed by many fires and the suppression of the details is believed to mean that the attack was far more serious than the official statement shows. In all preproven that the extent of damage done was minimized.

The news stories, censored as they are, state that Tuesday night's raid was the most serious yet made on
